KIMBER MFG. INC. (“Kimber”) has discovered a quality issue involving:

- (a) factory installed optics versions of Aegis handguns and KHx handguns shipped from January 2018 through May 13, 2019;
- (b) Optics Ready versions of Aegis handguns and KHx handguns shipped from January 2018 through May 13, 2019; and
- (c) the separately sold optics installation plate compatible with Aegis and KHx Optics Ready handguns (part numbers 4000750, 4000753, and 4000754) shipped from product launch through May 13, 2019. This recall affects all such products shipped from product launch through May 13, 2019.

This quality issue could allow the optics assembly to become separated from the handgun when it is fired, presenting a risk of serious personal injury to the user.

This Recall Notice applies only to the Serial Numbers of those products listed in the List of Serial Numbers of Recalled Products which can be found at <https://www.kimberamerica.com/safety>. If your handgun is among those in this List of Serial Numbers of Recalled Products, or if your separately purchased optics installation plate (part numbers 4000750, 4000753, and 4000754) was either shipped to you from Kimber or purchased by you from a retail seller between January 2018 and May 13, 2019, please contact us as described immediately, and do not load, use, sell, or otherwise make available your handgun, as the condition may lead to serious personal injury. Kimber is voluntarily recalling the affected products to help ensure the personal safety of the parties that purchased and/or used them.

If your handgun has a serial number listed in the List of Serial Numbers of Recalled Products found at <https://www.kimberamerica.com/safety>, please contact Kimber immediately as specified below. If (a) your handgun has factory installed optics, (b) your Optics Ready handgun has had the separately purchased optics installation plate installed, or (c) you have in your possession the separately sold optics installation plate, but it has not been installed on your handgun, Kimber will provide a Return Merchandise Authorization (“RMA”) and arrange for the handgun slide* and/or optics installation plate to be returned to Kimber for examination and remedial measures as may be necessary, free of charge.

If your handgun is Optics Ready and has the separately sold optics installation plate installed, you must remove your non-factory installed optic before return and return only the slide and plate. Kimber will provide a ground shipping label for slide returns. For those cases where customer service determines the entire handgun should be returned, Kimber will provide an air shipment label.
